Technology is a key element in keeping your non profit running smoothly. With the programs and services that we utilize changing almost daily, you need someone to oversee your systems to ensure that you are staying as productive as you can be, don't even get us started on all the various technology laws and regulations! For most non-profits, this falls on the office manager or what we call “Accidental IT”. What if your needs outgrow your current “Accidental IT” staff person or volunteer? Then what do you do? Managed IT service providers can help in these cases and oftentimes do so much more. In this workshop, we will discuss what Managed IT means, and how to tell if you really need these services and can your non profit afford to have it, or...afford not to?
